Narrow victory

Wilson's Laborites win

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson has carried his Labor party to a narrow victory in Britain's general elections on a platform of radical measures aimed at rescuing the nation from its worst economic slump since the 1930s.

Official returns today said the Laborite took at least 318 seats, the number needed for an over-all majority in the 635-member House of Commons. Labor held only 298 seats in the previous Commons, and its legislation was hobbled by

Even as the returns came in the Trade Department announced a $900 million foreign trade deficit for September, continuing a year-long trend. It said higher costs of importing oil accounted for much of the deficit.

"I would have liked a bigger majority," Wilson told supporters in Transport House, headquarters of the Labor movement. "But this Parliament is interesting and viable and can continue until the Labor government has done everything it was elected to do."

He said he would appear on nationwide television and radio Monday to outline his administration's program "to bring the country through to economic security.'

As Wilson spoke a bomb scare forced the evacuation of Transport House. which is near the Parliament buildings. He quickly drove away under police

Labor campaigned on a manifesto to renegotiate Britain's membership in the European Common Market, to bring key industries under state control, to bring about voluntary wage restraint, and to tax the rich "until the pips squeek."

Wilson favors keeping close ties with the United States.

With 618 of 635 seats decided, the Labor party held 318 seats, Edward Heath's Conservatives 273, the Liberals 9, and splinter groups 18.

Even before the results were official, Wilson declared, "I will soon be forming my fourth administration." He is the first man in this century to serve four times as Britain's prime minister.

Wilson, looking relaxed but tired after staying up most of the night watching the returns, flew into London from his home district near Liverpool as computer projections predicted a five-seat majority for Labor in Parliament when all returns

The Labor party has been in power with a minority government since last February when a narrow Labor electoral victory returned Wilson as prime minister, and ousted Heath.

Labor also has pledged to call for elections within a year on whether Britain should remain in the Common Market. Wilson generally has advocated bringing Britain closer to the United States rather than swinging sharply toward Europe.

'Bug' keeps Mills away from duties at Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who has not been seen at the Capitol since he was involved in an episode during which a woman jumped into the Washington Tidal Basin, will not, after all, return to his legislative work to-

An aide said Mills and his whole family "have a bug" and that it was not known when Mills would be able to resume congressional duties or go to Arkansas to resume campaigning for re-election.

Congress is scheduled to recess for a month at the close of business today.

Mills described himself Thursday as embarrassed and humiliated by his involvement in the affair. But he said in a statement he was returning to his Capitol office and the active chairmanship of the House Ways and Means Committee and that he would soon go on the campaign trail.

Mills, 65, and long considered one of the most powerful and respected members of Congres, has not been seen on Capitol Hill this week.

Park police said they stopped his speeding, unlighted car, driven by someone else, early Monday. They said a woman passenger "obviously intoxicated" emerged and Mills stepped from the car with his face bleeding, smelling of alcohol and intoxicated. They identified the woman as Annabel Bat-

Prostitution raid reprimand detailed

Wednesday's suspension of Police Chief William Miller was based on 10 detailed charges, including one that alleges he reprimanded a subordinate for conducting a raid on a house of prostitution that

The charge maintains that after the raid, the officer, Lt. Jewel Riley, was ordered not to raid Sportsman's Club No. 2, owned by Charles (Chuck) Brown, "at any time from then on. .

The charge says, "On two occasions prior to July 15, 1967, Lt. Jewel Riley ... planned and arranged raids of a known bawdy house and discussed the same in and about police headquarters concerning his attempts to enforce the laws of the city of Sedalia and the State of Missouri with regard to bawdy houses . . . "

It also says "... on two occasions raids were made on Sportsman's Club No. 2 on East St. Louis Street ... which then and there had a reputation in and about ... Sedalia . . . as a known bawdy house and on each of the two occasions when officers arrived at said Sportsman's Club No. 2, the place of business was closed."

Then, the charge continues, "On July 15, 1967, Lt. Jewel Riley . . . sent two officers to Sportsman's Club No. 2 . . . without any previous discussion with any members of the Sedalia Police Department and as a result thereof, two prositutes were arrested and based upon the information furnished. a warrant was obtained for the arrest of Charles Brown, owner and operator of said bawdy house, who was then and there arrested and posted a bond in the amount

The charge further alleges that "on July 16, 1967, William E. Miller, chief of police of the city of Sedalia ... summoned Lt. Riley to his office and there reprimanded him for not informing him . . . in advance about the raid and summarily ordered the said Lt. Riley not to raid Sportsman's Club No. 2 at any time from then on; thus and thereby abusing his authority in his official capacity ... in violation of the terms and provisions . . . of state law.

Riley, contacted Friday, said he left the

In a written statement on Thursday, Mills said Mrs. Battistella was one of a party of neighbors and friends he was entertaining, that she became ill, he tried to have her taken home, there was a struggle and her elbow broke his glasses, causing facial cuts.

Mill's administrative assistant, Oscar Eugene Goss, said Tuesday that Mills had told him he was not in the automobile and knew nothing of the episode. Mills said in his statement that Goss had misunderstood him when he said merely that a news account of the affair was inaccurate. Goss agreed in a separate statement.

In his statement, Mills said he and his wife Polly became close friends of Mrs. Battistella and her husband Eduardo when the Millses moved to a suburban apartment complex in Arlington, Va., where the Battistellas already had an

Because Mrs. Mills had a broken foot, he said, they could not entertain at home and at Mrs. Mills' insistence he arranged to "take our friends to a public place we had frequented before.'

His statement did not specifically mention drinking, but continued "we then visited another public place and after a few refreshments Mrs. Battistella became ill and I enlisted the help of others in our group to assist me in seeing her safely home.

"The man I asked to drive was unfamiliar with my car and among other things in the glare of the lighted streets neglected to turn on the headlamps,' Mills said "as we proceeded home, she (Mrs. Battistella) attempted to leave the car and I attempted to prevent it. In the ensuing struggle her elbow hit my glasses and broke them resulting in a number of small cuts around my nose.

Sirica completes selection of jury

WASHINGTON (AP) - A jury of nine women and three men was chosen today to hear the Watergate cover-up trial.

For the first nine days of the trial, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had questioned hundreds of potential jurors on what they know and think about

The tedious and painstaking process was the result of Sirica's fears that two years of news coverage of the Watergate scandals may have persuaded many perspective jurors that the defendants were guilty before the trial began.

While the 12 members of the jury itself have been picked, prosecution and defense lawyers continued picking an additional six alternates in Sirica's crowded courtroom.

Once that is completed, the jurors and alternates are to be taken home to make personal preparations for the trial, which is expected to last three or four months. The jurors are to be housed in a nearby motel and will be allowed no contact with anyone else outside the presence of U.S. marshals.

Completion of the lengthy jury selection process clears the way for Watergate prosecutors to lay out their case against the defense beginning Mon-

Racially, the 12 jurors consist of eight blacks and four whites. More than 70 per cent of Washington's population is black. The panel appeared generally middleclass and middle-aged.

After Sirica made one last request to the jurors to declare any reason why they might be unable to serve, they were sworn in. They shared three bibles while the five defendants stood facing them.

The jurors pledged to "well and truly try" the defendants, who are accused of attempting to smother the investigation into the original Watergate burglary.

Sometimes one-by-one and sometimes in groups, Sirica spent 10-hour days in his closed courtroom seeking out jurors sufficiently unbiased by two years of news coverage of the Watergate scandals.

Watergate prosecutors remain fearful that many potential jurors are reluctant to convict the defendants, three of whom were former President Richard M. Nixon's closest assistants.

In court papers, the prosecutors said many called to jury duty were troubled that Nixon's pardon allowed him to go free while the others faced prosecution for the attempt to suppress the investigation into the original Watergate burglry.

Nonetheless, Todd Christofferson, Sirica's law clerk, said Thursday night that a pool of 45 persons had been sifted out for the final phase of jury selection. Once the group of 45 is asked a few questions today, Sirica is to open the courtroom to public and press for the first time since last Wednesday.

In the final step of picking the jury, defense and prosecution lawyers are to make eliminations based solely on their feeling that one person or another would be unsympathetic to their cause.

Once the so-called peremptory challenges have been completed, the final jury of 12 plus six jurors will be taken to their homes where they will pack for a trial expected to last three or four months. The jurors will be sequestered over the weekend and for the length of the trial in a motel near the U.S. District Courthouse.

Sirica's impatience to get on with the trial is indicated by his decision to hold court Monday, which is Columbus Day and a federal holiday.

Debate future of food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - A big loss in grain crops this year because of bad weather will send meat prices up again next year but has stirred debate in the Ford administration about how food prices will act overall next season.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday the corn crop will be 6 per cent less than forecast a month ago, mainly because of killer frosts. And it will be down 16 per cent from the record 1973 harvest.

Soybeans, another livestock feed needed to produce the nation's meat, milk and poultry, will be 4 per cent less than the September estimate and down 19 per cent from last year.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said the reduced harvests even farther below what experts had expected six months ago - will mean higher meat prices next year.

But Paarlberg refused to predict how food prices generally might react in 1975. Those are expected to go up 15 to 17 per cent this year, one of the sharpest climbs since World War II.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been saying for six weeks that 1975 food prices would be held to less than a 10 per cent gain from this year. Paarlberg was asked about that.

"We have not made an official estimate," Paarlberg told a news conference after Thursday's crop report. "This is Secretary Butz's judgment. And he may simply hold to that figure; he may revise it; he may wait until the analysts have, themselves, reviewed the situation.'

In other economic developments Thursday:

-Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said the nation is in a recession — an assessment contradicting the one stated by President Ford at his Wednesday news conference - although he disagreed with those who forecast a deepening recession in the year ahead.

-United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said a nationwide coal strike is likely to begin Nov. 12 unless a negotiating impasse with the coal industry is broken.

-The House and Senate approved a compromise package of improved GI education benefits that would increase most payments to veterans by nearly 23

-The Senate passed unanimously an emergency housing bill under which $7.75 billion in government funds could be pumped into the home mortgage

Firm plans to leave equipment in city

Equipment at the Permaneer plant purchased with local industrial bond monies will not be transferred to other Permaneer plants across the country at the present time, a company spokesman said

The plant, located on north State Fair Boulevard, was scheduled to close Friday afternoon because of economic difficulties.

"We have no plans at the present to move any of the equipment purchased with Sedalia industrial bonds," Permaneer vicepresident Michael Hart said. However, he added, "it is conceivable that, in the future, management may decide to remove certain equipment that has no useful purpose at the Sedalia plant to other Permaneer locations."

Under the terms of the lease agreement between Permaneer and the city, Permaneer officials are required to replace the equipment with equipment of equal or

"The city would not be losing anything of value," Hart said. "If equipment is removed, it will be replaced by something as good if not better than the original equipment."

In the event another tenant, requiring different production equipment, is secured for the building, the Permaneer equipment purchased with city industrial bonds may be sold, Hart indicated.

A sale of equipment could also occur, he said, if the Permaneer officials reopen the plant and produce an item unrelated to the housing industry.

Proceeds from the sale of equipment would be used to help pay off the company's remaining $1,025,000 outstanding debt, Hart explained.

Approximately $360,000, out of a total $1.2 million industrial bond package approved in 1969, was expended on equipment, landscaping, abstract work and legal fees. The remaining money funded the construction of the plant building on North State Fair Boulevard. The firm the first four weeks of a U.S. District Court plan to desegregate Boston public schools by busing 18,200 of 92,000 pupils.

James O. Newpher, special agent in charge of the Boston FBI office, said the FBI has been investigating alleged civil rights violations and cases of possible interference with Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr.'s busing order.

'We have sent some information to Washington for a decision on what further action to take," Newpher said in an interview Thursday. "When the lawyers arrive tomorrow, we'll present our information to them, and they will expedite whatever action is necessary."

Meanwhile, Mayor Kevin H. White said he would not support a wider busing plan until the federal government gives a better guarantee of safety for school children here. He accused President Ford of inflaming resistance to integration.

There was no direct White House response to White's remarks, but a spokesman said citizens should obey the court's ruling. The spokesman also said law and order in Boston is a state and city responsibility.

Ford told a news conference Wednesday that, while the law must be obeyed, he disagreed with Garrity's order.

White said Ford's statement would lead to further disruption "and will endanger the safety of our school children in the process.'

State and Metropolitan District Commission police replaced the Tactical Patrol Force of the Boston police in the white, Irish South Boston section for the first time Thursday. The 450 new police patrolled the section, a center of antibusing sentiment, after Garrity ordered White to seek such aid from Sargent.

Episcopalian bishops puzzled

By GEORGE CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - A modetating note has turned up in a scholarly dispute over whether the ordination of 11 women as Episcopal priests was valid or not. But controversy about it still rippled through the denomination.

Proposals for calling a special convention on the matter were expected to be considered at a meeting of the church's House of Bishops commencing this weekend in Mexico City.

"The entire matter has become more confused and beclouded than before," says Bishop Arthur A. Vogel of Kansas City, Mo. "It's become an out-and-out political issue with some groups water- case on writings of Father van ing down the role of the min-

"If the church ever lets itself become just another organization, it would be a betrayal of the church's nature as Christ's mystical body and of the special relationships in it.'

Meanwhile, Bishop Vogel, one of the two scholars involved in the dispute about the ordinations, and the other, a Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. F.J. van Beeck of Boston College, still disagreed on the issue itself.

But after an exchange of letters, they now concur that Bishop Vogel, in advising his church's bishops to reject the ordinations, did not base his Beeck.

'Neither my advisement nor the action of the House of Bishops depended in any positive way on the theological position of Father van Beeck," Bishop Vogel says.

He says that in his analysis he merely described Father van Beeck's concepts to the bishops to point up the differing approaches to the issue, but that the view was not applied to the present Episcopal problem.

Father van Beeck, who earlier had said his writings were misinterpreted by Bishop Vogel in opposing validity of the ordinations, concedes his position was not misconstrued in that manner as he previously had understood.

In a letter, he told Bishop Vogel he was making textual changes in his commentary on the matter in which "I acknowledge the fact that my theory is not integral to the argument you set up.

However, Father van Beeck says he still disagrees with the theological rationale presented by Bishop Vogel to fellow bishops last August as the basis on which they ruled the ordinations invalid.

The bishops took the viewas advised by Bishop Vogel in a study paper-that the ordinations broke with communal processes in the church and therefore did not meet the requirements for validity.

In the ordinations last July in Philadelphia, four bishops, three of them retired, acted in disregard of church rules saying ordinands must be recommended by home vestries and dioceses - backing which the women lacked.

"The intention of ordination must originate in the community," Bishop Vogel main-

Father van Beeck says Bishop Vogel's view fails to recognize the "extraordinary situation" of conflict in the Episcopal Church over women's ordination, and tends to make a bishop a "mere delegate" of a harmonious community

Theological giants remain

By GEORGE CORNELL AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Most of

the oft-termed "theological giants" of this century are dead, including Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Emil Brunner, Martin Buber, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Rheinhold Niebuhr. Only one of that constellation still is living, Germany's Rudolph Bultmann,

Are there any newcomers to fill the gap? Editors of six leading church magazines singled out 11 persons as "today's living giants of the Christian

Ranked as the most dominant theologian was European scholar Jurgen Moltmann of Germany. He a reformed churchman who sparked a "theology of hope" movement. It emphasizes faith as a drive toward future goodness, with God in front leading humanity ahead, and finds realizations of hope both through struggle for reform in this world and in con-

-Philosopher Bernard Lonergan, a Canadian Jesuit, of Regis College, Toronto, a profound intellectual whose work in building bridges between theology and the social sciences has been compared to that of Thomas Aquinas. -Southern Baptist evangelist Billy Graham, who is not regarded a creative theologian and who often is accused of overemphasizing personal salvation and minimizing the Gospel's social implication, but who has preached to more people than anyone in history. He was cited for his "obvious appeal" and influence among

-Roman Catholic Archbishop Helder Camara of Brazil who has defied Brazil's military government to denounce inUniversity. She holds that traditional Christianity has been used as a tool of oppression, especially in sexist views of women. She contends it should be a message of liberation.

-American Indian writer Vine Deloria, a Sioux, author of "Custer Died for Your Sins" and "God is Red." While no primarily a theologian, he was cited for offering a "stirring call for society's repentence and reform.

-Roman Catholic priest-sociologist Andrew Greeley, director of Chicago's National Oginion Research center and a lucid, prolific writer, who combines the insights of sociology and theology.

-Pentecostal leader David DuPlessis, termed the "chief statesman of the Pentecostal movement," now affecting major Protestant denominations as well as Roman Catholicism.

W. Lehr said Thursday. Lehr said his opponent, Republican incumbent John Ashcroft, had audited the Board of Barber Examiners and the Board of Cosmetology.
"I certainly rank the Public Service Commission, which regulates $1 billion in utility rates yearly; the state Tax Commission, which ultimately controls all property taxes and assessments for utilities and railroads in Missouri; and the Division of Health, which is responsible for inspecting and licensing the state's nursing homes, as top priority items to be audited during the first six months in a Lehr administration of the auditor's Performance auditing, he said, is a tool that should be used "to measure whether the taxpayers are receiving a fair return of governmental services for their tax dollars.' 'For example, we need to ask whether our nursing home inspectors have been properly trained; if the procedures they follow are conducive or destructive to bringing homes into compliance with state regulations. "There is no excuse for the incumbent auditor's failure to do an audit of the Division of Health. As soon as it was announced last year by HEW that 47 per cent of Missouri's nursing homes did not meet the Life Safety Code, the auditor should have initiated a performance audit of the Division of Health immediately," Lehr said.

Kissinger takes his peace mission to Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger brought his Middle East peace mission to Syria today amid Palestinian denunciations, an accidental gunshot and signs his talks in Egypt accomplished less than he had

The secretary's arrival was delayed half an hour by an accidental discharge of a submachine gun aboard his U.S. Air Force jetliner. A Secret Service agent suffered minor wounds in the scalp and Kissinger immediately began talks with President Hafez Assad after ceremonies at Damascus Airport. It was expected to be the secretary's toughest negotiation session.

In other Middle East developments:

-In Moscow, Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev declared in a televised address clearly timed to coincide with Kissinger's trip that the continued occupation of Arab territory is a "powder keg than can explode at any moment."

-In Jerusalem, Premier Yitzhak Rabin called a special cabinet meeting to prepare for Kissinger's weekend visit, and sources said the Israeli government was making last-minute decisions on Israeli demands in future peace talks with the Arabs.

U.S. officials who usually brief newsmen on board Kissinger's plane imposed a virtual blackout on details of his conversations with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. But a clear impression emerged that Kissinger accomplished less than he had hoped for in Cairo.

Although reporters saw a map being into Sadat's residence during Killinger's talks with the Egyptian leader, U.S. officials insisted that only "general concepts" were discussed and indicated no breakthrough.

Leaks by Egyptian government officials, widely reported in Beirut and other Arab capitals, said Kissinger told Sadat it would be impossible to arrange an Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva for the near future.

As an alternative, Kissinger was said to have proposed lower-level negotiations in Washington between the Egyptian, Syrian, Jordanian and Israeli foreign ministers.

Sadat was reported to have rejected this proposal outright, saying it was a return to the no-war, no-peace stalemate that led to the last Arab-Israeli war in October 1973.

The submachine gun incident occurred when the Israeli-made weapon toppled from a rack in the rear of the plane as it taxied at Cairo Airport. Kissinger hurried to the front cabin as the wounded agent, Walter Boche of Alexandria, Va., called out: "Don't worry about me. Check the secretary.'

Kissinger was met at the Damascus airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. He was scheduled for talks with Khaddam and Syrian President Hafez Assad before moving on to Jordan tonight.

Seventeen hours earlier, a bomb destroyed the offices of the National Cash Register Co., killing a Syrian woman employe and wounding another.

In Beirut, the guerrilla news agency WAFA said Kissinger's hands were stained with the blood of crimes committed in Chile, Cyprus and Indochina. "He is coming to the Mideast with a new crime, supplying Israel with $5 billion of aid," WAFA said.

created concern locally when they announced some of the equipment purchased with the industrial bond money was being used at other Permaneer plants in Oregon, Pittsburgh, and Wright City.

The equipment subsequently was returned to Sedalia, with production at the plant beginning the following April.

Company officials Monday informed the City Council that production at the plant would cease Friday afternoon because of a slump in the housing industry. In addition to citing the possibility of securing a new tenant for the building or producing a different item, company officials also mentioned the possibility of resuming production when the housing market

In securing a new tenant, the company could, with the permission of the City Council, sell the building and grounds to another company. Or, they could sublease the property. Because a sublease plan would not involve tranferral of the outstanding debt, council approval would not be necessary, it was explained.

Although plant production ended Friday, between 30 to 40 employes, in addition to the plant management staff, will continue work for at least a couple of weeks, it was police force Oct. 29, 1969. He gave two primary reasons: "I received a permanent and disabling injury while on the department," he said. Riley also said he "received no cooperation" while he was a lieutenant. "I was assured I would be given command of the night shift to enforce the law when I was named lieutenant," he said, but added that this was not always the case. He was elevated to that position in 1965.

Asked how he felt about Wednesday's action by the mayor, Riley said it was "necessary and long overdue." Riley currently works part-time in the office of the Pettis County sheriff's department.

Kissinger arrived from Cairo "encouraged" by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt on the prospects of restarting Arab-Israeli peace talks, but without a firm agreement.

The American secretary, on his sixth Middle East peace mission since the October war a year ago, indicated Thursday night after a 21/2-hour session with Sadat that the opposing sides remain far from agreement on peace negotiations.

Asked about resuming discussions at Geneva, Kissinger told newsmen, "We are at the beginning of the trip, and we have to go to many other countries before I can answer that."

Sadat also hedged on the subject. He said, "We have discussed that in broad outlines" but added that details haven't been worked out.

Egypt and Israel have indicated they are willing to negotiate another Israeli pullback in the Sinai Desert, but Kissinger reiterated that he does not expect his trip to bring a dramatic breakthrough.

He said, however, the trip should "contribute to peace in the Middle East. I was encouraged with the (Sadat) talk." Kissinger conveyed to Sadat Israel's insistence that further withdrawal in the Sinai must be coupled with a pledge from the Arabs to end their economic and diplomatic boycott of the Jewish state.

Informed sources said there appeared three other key stumbling blocks: the Palestinian desire for nationhood; the Arabs' attitude against a nonaggression treaty; and how to tie nonbelligerency to further Israeli pullbacks, including on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

Defense offer is accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former President Richard M. Nixon has accepted a Justice Department offer to continue defending him in civil suits alleging improper political harassment while in office, a spokesman for Nixon's attorney

The department has made a similar offer to lawyers for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Nixon advisers H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Mitchell's lawyer said the former attorney general wants the department to continue defending him. Haldeman's lawyer said the former presidential adviser is willing to accept government representattion in the suits against him only in his former official capacity. Ehrlichman's lawyer indicated Ehrlichman also would accept the offer.

Nixon's Washington attorney, Herbert J. Miller, has written the department to ask that government attorneys continue representing the former President, said a Miller associate.

Miller was replying to a letter Sept. 24 from Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen.

The Miller associate noted that the department defended Nixon in the five pending cases while he was president. "We have responded saying that we have no desire for that to change," the associate told a reporter.

He said, "It's a very common practice" for government attorneys to continue defending former officials after they leave office in law suits arising from their official actions.

Meanwhile, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., made public a letter to Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe asking for an explanation of the Justice Department's -

Some offices to close on Monday

The Pettis County Courthouse, the Federal Building and the local Missouri Division of Employment Security office will all be closed Monday in observance of Columbus Day.

said in an interview Thursday. Holmes defended his boss, HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, who provoked some 1,000 angry letters and dozens of Southern newspaper editorials last month when he said HEW was taking a conciliatory approach to Northern segregation because of "very fierce public opposition" in big cities. Among the critics of that statement was Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S. C., who called Weinberger's remarks incredible.

Of the current unrest in Boston over school desegregation, Holmes said that city clearly was an instance of school segregation by law. He said he did not detect any change of federal civil rights policy in President Ford's statement Wednesday disagreeing with the courtordered busing in Boston while urging compliance with the law.

Holmes said that the government will cut off federal money to segregated schools only as a last resort, but he said that policy applies nationwide.

Shaw is first to appear before jury

The Pettis County grand jury started its day Friday with testimony from Robert Shaw, the vice-president of the advertising firm of Christenson, Barclay and Shaw Inc. that handled the advertising for the Ozark Music Festival.

Shaw arrived at the county court house shortly after 10 a.m. Friday and was in the jury room by 10:15 a.m. Friday afternoon the grand jury was expected to hear testimony from Sal Brancator, vice-president of Musical Production Inc., the promoters of the festival held in Sedalia at the State Fairgrounds in July.

The grand jury has been looking into the Ozark Music Festival since Sept. 3 and has issued 23 subpoenas. The number of persons requested to appear, but not subpoenaed, is not known.

The grand jury will have to make a report of its findings to the Pettis County Circuit Court by the last week in November.

Dear Ann Landers: "Seen It Happen" has seen only what she wants to see. Just because she knows of a May-December marriage that didn't work out (probably some dizzy golddigger married to a rich old goat) doesn't mean none are successful. I am a 24-year-old woman who is deeply in love with a man twice my age. We have a beautiful relationship. The age difference complements and enriches both our lives. He appreciates my youth and I am grateful for his wisdom. I've never been happier or more content.

I have had relationships with "boys" my own age and they were full of deceit, selfcenteredness and very little personal growth. From my point of view, THAT was prostitution. I was tolerating a lot of boredom and nonsense for what I could get out of it, mainly, a chance to go out and see and be seen, rather than stay home.

I suggest "Seen It Happen" either open her eyes or keep her jealous mouth shut because she hasn't seen it all. - An Exception

Dear Exception: I received an unexpected avalanche of letters from women who expressed the same point of view. Yours was the best. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years of age, attractive (according to my friends) and although I had my leg amputated two years ago I feel normal and am happier than most two-legged girls I know. I view my "handicap" as a challenge and have never let it get me down. Since my leg is off at the hip I've found it much easier to use crutches than an artificial limb.

The problem is my mother. I love pant suits, short skirts and the current styles for women my age. My mother keeps nagging me to wear longer skirts, she hates pants, and insists I should dress so people will look at the upper part of

Your attitude is super. You've done a remarkable job of adjusting to a handicap that would throw most young women for a loop. I am filled with admiration.

Dear Ann Landers: About ten years ago my mother and her brother had a bitter argument and stopped seeing each other. I know my mother missed him a great deal. I suspect he missed her, too, because once they were very close.

Recently my mother became seriously ill. The doctors say she can't live much longer. When her brother found out how sick she was, he and his wife came to see her immediately. They brought flowers and gifts. Now they are friendly again.

How sad when relatives have fights and stop speaking to each other. The years go by - years when they could be having good times together sharing happy experiences. When tragedy strikes everybody wishes they had behaved differently.

Bugged by beetles on her rose bushes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with those seasoning cans that come with plastic tops from which you can pour. spoon or sprinkle. Often the cover is not securely placed on the container. When the handy lids are used the whole thing comes off. - APRIL.

DEAR POLLY - I want to tell Jean how I clean a sandstone fireplace — a remedy I learned by trial-and-error. Place a plastic drop cloth over the floor around the fireplace and cover it with several thicknesses of newspaper. In a small pan (for easy handling) make a strong solution of water and that powdered big job cleaner that requires no rinsing and wiping dry. Hopefully you will have an old nylon hair brush with stiff bristles that needs replacing. Put on rubber gloves. With the brush start at the top and scrub a strip about a foot wide, all the way down, at a time. Refill pan with solution when needed and keep on with one strip after another. As the brush wears out saw off with a hack saw. The job can really be done very quickly and easily. Unless the fireplace is very dirty one brush should do the job. The brush handle protects your knuckles from rubbing against the rocks. I much prefer this to the muriatic acid recommended by rock masons and think it does a cleaner job. - MRS.

DEAR MRS. G.C.M. - I was interested to note you started at the top. I have always found that when washing walls, etc., is is more satisfactory to start at the bottom. There is less chance of streaking. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY - My new bedspread has to be dry cleaned and I do not want to use it for an extra cover. I had the problem of what to do with it at night. I had an old baby bed guard rail and found that by sliding it in at the foot of the bed the problem was solved. My afghan is folded across the bottom rail and the spread is folded over the top.

When washing dishes I put in the required amount of detergent but a small amount of water. As the water cools I add more hot water without having to drain some away or having to add more detergent. — DIANE.

DEAR POLLY — Mother and I both do crewel embroidery and found it so hard to keep the various colors and shades of colors separated. Now I put notches on the two opposite long sides of a piece of cardboard and numbers by the notches. Each yarn color is wrapped around two opposite notches that have the colors marked according to the work chart. Now it is so easy to differentiate between the colors and shades. - TRACY

DEAR POLLY — I can sympathize with Gladys whose home is invaded by tiny black ants. We have had both black and red ones and the best cure we found was to use cayenne or red pepper. Sprinkle wherever there are any signs of the ants and they will soon leave. Do this about once a week. -

DEAR READERS — As most homes have either children or pets many of the poisonous remedies must be ruled out. Borax and derris powder are both non-poisonous and often recommended to be placed where the ants will walk through the dry powder. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — When any member of my family buys a new garment or new pair of shoes I immediately mark the size in the item with a marking pen. When they are passed on to someone else, given to a clothing drive or whatever the next person can ascertain the size immediately. The back of the neck is usually the best place in a garment for this. -

DEAR POLLY — I was interested in the Pointer about turning off one's iron before the ironing is quite finished to conserve electricity. I save it in a similar way by turning off the oven five to 10 minutes before removing what is being baked as the oven stays very hot for some time and it seems wasteful not to utilize that heat.

When I am baking potatoes I make it a point to have an oven baked dinner such as baked chicken, meat loaf, ribs and so on at the same time. This way the oven heat is not being wasted by cooking just one thing. - CELIA

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - Do the beetles that appear on rose bushes go into the ground to destroy the roots? If so, how does one get rid of them before they get that far? -EVELYN.

about this? Dear Reader - Not much. I grew more than three inches after I was 17, without iodine pills or any other medicine. Your son must not have been below the normal range in height at 18 if he grew four more inches and ended up at six feet three. There are a lot of normal people who never pass the five-foot-nine level.

Growth usually stops, or nearly so, when the long bones in the legs calcify. There is a zone of cartilage near the end of the bones which grows and grows until then. When the endocrine sequence occurs and male or female hormone is formed in sufficient amounts, or extra amounts are given artificially, these areas calcify and growth stops.

The age that this occurs varies. A late bloomer may still be growing in the early 20s. However, for abnormally short people one shouldn't wait beyond the age of 16 to see if they need some growth

Adequate amounts of thyroid hormone are essential to growth. Thyroid hormone and growth hormone work together to do this. And, iodine is essential to normal thyroid function. However, I must

This same problem of failure to use good logic also causes problems in many aspects of our daily lives. You can't assume that because there was a hurricane in Florida and a power failure in New York that the hurricane blew out the lights. When people learn to appreciate this fact of logic they will be less likely to be victimized by a host of nearfraudulent health fads and by many other wild claims made in all sectors of our modern life. Don't be gullible, be logical.

THE SECOND DEATH

The "Second Death" and the "Lake of Fire" are identical terms according to Rev. 20:14. They are used to describe the eternal state of the wicked, those who have rejected God' plan of eternal salvation. It is called the "second death" because it follows the first, or physical death. We have said that this applies to those who have rejected God's plan of redemption, that was purchased by Christ when He died on the cross for our sins. Those who will face this death will find that it is an eternal state of "death", or separation from God. The Apostle John quotes Jesus as describing it this way; "...Ye shall die in your sins... for if ye believe not that I am He, (the Son of God) ye shall die in your sins."(John 8:21-24). There are those today that think that the punishment of Hell is an annihilation and that it will last for only a short time and then they will pass out of exsistance all together. Contrary to this the Bible shows us that after a thousand years in the Lake of fire the beast and False Prophet are still there, undestroyed (Rev. 19:20 & 20:10). In Rev. 20:10 the words, "forever and forever" are used to describe the duration of the stay of the punishment of Satan and those who follow him. In Heb. 1:8 the same words are used to describe the duration of the throne of God, which is eternal or unending. So we can see that eternal punishment is an unending torment for those who reject God's wonderful

The Gift of God is the Lord Jesus Christ that freely left the throne of God to become human flesh to live a sinless life, that He might suffer the pains of death for mankind. In dying He was not paying for His share in Adam's original sin, for Christ was not born of an earthly father. He was concieved of the Holy Spirit and was made as Adam was first created, without sin. Because of this He was able to meet the demands that God had placed upon the redemption of man. He freely gave His life that we might have eternal life. This life comes by receiving Christ as your Saviour, and turning from sin to God. Jesus said; "I am the way the truth, and the life, no man cometh unto the father but by me." John 14:6.

'FOUR THINGS GOD WANTS EVERYONE TO KNOW"

ALL MEN ARE SINNERS "As it is written, there is none righteous, no not one; There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God." Romans 3:10,11.

THERE IS A PENALTY FOR SIN. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

GOD HAS PROVIDED A WAY OF SALVATION. "But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

SALVATION COMES BY ASKING GOD FOR IT. "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved . . . For whosover shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Romans 10:9-13.

Ford's inflation war starts with fizzle

WASHINGTON - I've seen livelier brawls in Sunday school than this "assault" which President Ford calls his war on save his life.

he would ask Americans "bite the bullet," conjuring up visions of a wounded battlefield soldier with no morphine, no other painkiller available, clenching his teeth on a bullet so he can stand the pain of surgery needed to

He had warned that

What a disappointment! I saw nothing in that speech that even remotely forces me toward painful sacrifice, toward austerity. toward the kind of self-denial which seems so necessary to pulling this country out of its economic morass.

Ford sure didn't ask American business to bite the bullet. He imposed a 5 per cent surtax, but he then gave business far more than he took away with a 10 per cent investment tax credit, deductions for dividends on preferred stocks, liberalized capital gains taxes - not to mention that grab-bag giveaway in which he halts regulatory agencies from imposing rules and requirements that allegedly hike the costs of industrial and consumer products and thus presumably add to inflation.

Does that mean that federal agencies can't halt the use of suspect pesticides? Does it mean the federal government won't insist that companies guarantee that their children's pajamas won't catch fire because to make the pajamas fireproof raises their price?

Mr. Ford's sally against the regulatory agencies was applauded by Congress because on the surface it sounded like a blow against stupid bureaucracy. It may have been the President saying farewell to the Environmental Protection Agency, the Consumer Protection Agency - and a further castration of agencies which for years, anyhow, have mostly protected the industries they were supposed to regulate.

At first hearing you might conclude that Mr. Ford's new plan is a bonanza for the 38 million families who earn less than $15,000 a year and the 16 million unrelated individuals who earn less than $7,500 a year. Not so for most of them, for prices will continue to rise (those goodies given to business are infationary!) and unemployment will rise, too.

Mr. Ford's Community Improvements Corps is a nostalgic throwback to the CCC (Civilian Conservation Corps) of the Roosevelt era when some of my Tennessee buddies went away to what then was regarded as a respectable reform school.

Whether Mr. Ford's one-year CIC is worth the sweat off a ghetto laborer's brow can be determined only when we see how it works. Mr. Ford wants it triggered when unemployment hits 6 per cent in a "local labor market." Well, just what is a local labor market? A whole vast city where unemployment is 5.9 per cent, or the minority half of that city where joblessness is at 15 per cent?

Maybe President Ford offered as much as his political philosophy would permit. No one is likely to assail him for leaping to embrace socialism on the basis of this

Yet, I wonder if Mr. Ford realizes that the people he came closest to asking to "bite the bullet" are the heart of middleclass America: those 12.5 million families which earn between $15,000 and $25,000 a year. These are the families which aspire upward, who already are in hock till eternity trying to get their children through college, who earn as much as they do because the husband moonlights and the wife puts in 40 hours a week.

These families probably will resent the surtax. They will be easy political prey for hustlers trying to convince them they they are being asked to support 38 million families which are full of lazy moochers.

I know of no circumstance where I'd be happier to have events prove me wrong. But this Ford gambit will not suffice. I rather suspect that as a people Americans have become too fat, too soft, too spoiled, to voluntarily make the kinds of

So before long, President Ford will be back on television, trying to give us a clearer version of the bullet he wants us to

Kissinger set policy on southern Africa

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON From classified documents and dozens of interviews, we have now learned that Henry Kissinger guided President Nixon in January, 1970, along a tightrope between black and white Africa, with a secret tilt toward the white supremacist nations.

It was Kissinger's first big "tilt."

The Kissinger prosposals were submitted to the former President as part of a massive review of U.S. policy toward southern Africa, our sources say. Prepared by Kissinger's National Security Council staff and stamped SECRET on every page, the review is known formally as "National Security Study Memorandum 39." Its existence has been previously reported, but we have obtained a copy.

NSSM 39 offered five "options" for dealing with the explosive black-white confrontation in southern Africa. Supposedly, it was left to Nixon to choose the final policy. To this day, only a handful of Kissinger's closest associates know that he personally recommended the course he thought should be pursued.

Without exception, Nixon accepted Kissinger's recommendations. Here's what Kissinger proposed and Nixon adopted:

✓ As a "general posture," Kissinger called for a "balancing" act in southern Africa; he wanted to "straddle" the blackwhite issue. With an emphasis on keeping it "quiet," he urged a "partial relaxation." of the chill toward the whie regimes and an accompanying "modest" increase of aid to the black states. His objective, inside sources told my associate Joe Spear, was to persuade the blacks that the United States sympathized with them while fostering a secret kinship with the whites.

Kissinger advocated a slight relaxation of the stern U.S. posture toward white-ruled Rhodesia, an outlaw nation cut off diplomatically from the rest of the world. United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia were penalizing American firms. Kissinger contended, because other nations ignored them. He suggested, therefore, that the United States should prepare plans ✓ Kissinger also wanted the United States to retain its consular office in Salisbury, Rhodesia. This was opposed by William Rogers, then secretary of state, who argued strenuously that the office should be closed. But Kissinger's wishes prevailed until the British, who had accredited the consulate, demanded that it be shut down.

sides, Kissinger suggested, in the Portugese colonial wars. But he urged a 'quiet loosening" of the American arms embargo against Portugal's African colonies. The new policy, Kissinger advised Nixon, should permit the shipment to the Portugese of "nonlethal" equipment with 'dual" civilian and military use.

Kissinger also recommended that the arms embargo against South Africa should be "relaxed" to permit the sale of nonlethal equipment "intended" civilian use. The United State should also increase "military contacts" with South Africa, Kissinger advised, as long as it could be done "inconspicuously.

The delicate question of South Africa's control over South West Africa, with its overwhelming black population, should be avoided if at all possible, Kissinger pleaded. It should not be permitted, he argued, to become an issue in Washington's "bilateral relations" with South Africa.

As a sop to the black nations of southern Africa, Kissinger proposed a modest increase in foreign aid of about $5 rade between the Unied States and the white regimes should be encouraged, Kissinger advocated. But he stressed again that it should be done quietly. The services of the Export-Import Bank, he added, should be extended to South Africa and the Portuguese colonies.

Kissinger's recommendations were based largely upon "Option 2" in the fruit that develops into a NSSM 39 policy review. As spelled out in 15 to 30 bushels of apples.

to "loosen" enforcement of economic the secret document, this option called for broader association with both black and white states" on the "premise" that "the whites are here to stay and the only way that constructive change can come about is through them."

Under Option 2, the United States would 'Maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states." Among the "operational examples" listed under Option 2 are these:

"Enforce arms embargo against South Africa but with liberal treatment of equipment which could serve either military or civilian purposes.

✓ "Remove constraints on EXIM Bank facilities for South Africa; actively encourage U.S. exports and facilitate U.S. investments.'

"Conduct selected exchange programs with South Africa in all categories, including military."

"On Rhodesia, retain consulate; gradually relax sanctions (e.g. hardship exemptions for chrome) and consider eventual recognition."

"Establish flexible aid programs in the black states of the region; respond to reasonable requests for purchase of nonsophisticated arms."

This was the course that Kissinger chose and that Nixon followed.

Apples, apples

In late April and early May a large, mature apple tree will produce between 50,000 and 100,000 blossoms, in clusters of five or six. If all the blossoms were to set fruit, the tree would produce as many as 800 bushels of small apples. Usually a mere 2 to 5 per cent of the apple blossoms set fruit that develops into maturity, yielding sacrifices the times call for.

In praise of church dinners

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Among the slowly dwindling number of things in which I take real pleasure in this world, I would include the church dinner.

It offers warm fellowship, made even more enjoyable by the culinary prospects involved. As far as the latter is concerned, I would consider the covered-dish dinner to be one of America's few contributions to world gastromony.

The key to a successful church dinner is variety. Fried chicken, inevitably, will be the mainstay of any such affair, enhanced by barbecued meat balls, the stuffed pork chops, a chance platter of sliced brisket, the occasional crab casserole that make the church dinner an epicurean delight.

Even the most prosaic dish can find a place at a church supper. An unsuspecting husband will often find himself taking a second helping of his wife's weiner curry, which might hardly rate a nod of approval under normal circumstances.

There are distinct elements of skill involved with church dinners. One area involves the ability to load your plate to where it would strain the back of a Peruvian burro, and yet escape being accused of falling victim to the second deadly sin. This can sometimes be done by diverting the attention of your table mates to another area of the room and then quickly consuming the more excessive features of your plate while their backs are

Another method is to sit at the table occupied by the cooks who prepared the dishes you have copiously piled onto your plate. Then you will be considered a connoisseur of fine food rather than a chow

I am convinced that church dinners also serve to encourage the housewives of America to be better cooks. A discreet 'Why doesn't your creamed broccoli taste like Sally Gotchalk's?" can do wonders to spur your mate on to tastier dishes. (Either that, or your wife will ask you why you didn't marry Sally Gotchalk in the first place, a question, as every man knows, to which there is no possible answer.)

As fond as I am of church dinners, it's a good thing they don't happen more than two or three times a year. The waistbands of America couldn't stand it.

A 40-year-old error has been brought to my attention, which we will herewith correct. In a recent "40 years ago" item it was stated that the relief mattress factory in Sedalia was under the supervision of Frank Bryan. George M. Bryan informs me that the factory was actually managed by his father, the late George F. Bryan.

If we ever have to go back to public service employment — and the way things look, we might - that mattress factory idea sounds pretty good to me. I would be available as a tester in the quality control

Opening lead-A◆

By Oswald & James Jacoby We are indebted to Dr. Bertrand Romanet of Paris for today's hand. It illustrates a most unusual defense against a squeeze.

West opens the ace of dia-monds and continues with the queen. South is careful to ruff with dummy's ace of spades and at this point East is nearly squeezed. Suppose he chucks a club.

South leads dummy's jack of spades and eventually picks up all East's trumps while discarding the nine of hearts from dummy. Then he is able to ruff out a club with his last trump and make his contract.

Suppose East chucks a ### heart. Once more South picks

up East's trumps but now he up East's trumps but now he has three heart tricks.

Then why is East almost squeezed? Because East can discard a low trump. South can still pick up the trumps and run off the last two, but East is discarding in back of dummy and there is no squeeze against him. squeeze against him.

This particular hand was probably made up by the good doctor, but the play of underruffing to avoid a squeeze comes up on occasion and is well worth knowing.

Awesome Oklahoma, winner of its last two games by an amazing combined score of 135-3, will seek to maintain that momentum Saturday against upset-minded Texas in one of the feature games on this weekend's college football schedule.

While top-rated Ohio State has the home field advantage Saturday for its Big Ten encounter with 13th-ranked Wisconsin, the No. 2 Oklahoma Sooners must travel to Dallas to take on the Texas Longhorns, rated 17th.

"They've really got an outstanding football team," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal, who has a 12-5 coaching record against the Sooners.

A Texas official said 150,000 tickets could have been sold for the 69th meeting of the schools, which will be played before a sellout crowd of 72,000 at the Cotton Bowl. The although Oklahoma has won the last three games, Texas leads 42-24-2 over-all.

Weaver rehired

BALTIMORE (AP) - Earl Weaver, who directed the Baltimore Orioles to a fifth American League division title in six years, was rehired today for the 1975 season.

Contract terms were not disclosed but Weaver is believed to have signed for an estimated $80,000, representing a raise of about $5,000.

"we would have lost about $300,000. But by getting into the playoffs for four games, two of them at home, we should just about break

Hoffberger, who has controlled the Orioles since 1966, has said frequently that he is not in the sport to make money but neither does he want to absorb losses.

Under Hoffberger, the Orioles lost money only in 1972, when they showed a net loss of $214,582. There was also a deficit of $57,412 in 1967, but only because about $280,000 was lost in operating a pro soccer team.

There have been periodic reports that the Orioles might

'But the Soviets made it plain that they will not accredit Americans at Baykonur," said John P. Don-nelly, NASA assistant administrator for public affairs. Donnelly was the chief U.S. negotiator.

He said negotiations were limited to some extent by the Nixon-Kosygin 1972 summit agreement that approved the joint mission. That agreement says, in effect, that each country could operate its information policy as it saw fit, according to customs and practices. That meant the Americans could operate their normal open coverage, while the Russians if they desired, could have surrounded most of their part of the flight in secrecy as has been their practice. But the Soviets chose not to draw a complete secrecy blanket.

The Russians have maintained tight secrecy at Baykonur, and the only notable westerners known to have viserage of the Apollo-Soyuz ited there was French Presi-

NEW YORK (AP) — Words, you can buy it back later at a like fortunes, are made and lost on Wall Street.

Gone for now are the words of the heady years of the past, when go-go funds were run by swingers and gunslingers looking for smart money investments in high flyers, glamours, yo-yo stocks or stocks in the second tier of the Nifty Fifty.

But Wall Street's penchant for creating new words, phrases and jokes seems to have declined with the Dow Jones industrial average this year. And about the only new phrase to come out of the Street in recent months is gloomy: double-digit inflation.

"When things are easy in a big bull market, you get more humor," says Eldon Grimm, a veteran of the Street who's been around long enough to know. "Now it's hard to come

"I don't think people have the time to think about these things," says Peter Wyckoff, author of "The Language of Wall Street." "They're just too worried."

Each profession has its code words, from banking to short order cookery, and Wall Street still has at least its share.

Blue chips and widow-andorphan stocks have been demeaned and war babies, defense stocks, rejected. All were caught in the claws of the most powerful bear market since the '30s.

Bull and bear are the Street's best known symbols. They refer to the way a bull thrusts his head up in a fight while a bear grapples and wrestles his opponent down. From time to time, these concepts have been related to creation of illegal bull traps, bear polls and bear raids, in which bears join forces to force down the price of a stock, only to buy it back at a profit.

Also illegal are bucket shops, run by bucketteers who theoretically execute customers' orders and make money when the client loses. Painting the tapemaking trades just to get a company's name on the ticker is out, but investors can still put their

Charges by Burlison are denied

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) - The sister of Rep. Bill D. Burlison has denied charges by his November election opponent challenging legality of his residence

Truman Farrow of Jackson, who is attempting to unseat Burlison, charged Thursday that the address listed by Burlison as his Cape Girardeau residence is a house owned by Ruth D. Meadows.

Mrs. Meadows, the congressman's sister, admitted owning the property but said her brother's legal residence has been maintained there for several years.

Also denied by Mrs. Meadows was a claim by Farrow that no records are available to prove Burlison's having paid any taxes in Cape Girardeau County since 1969.

Farrow said he is asking Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to investigate his residency charge.

Hospital report presented

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS - The acquisition of a one-way communication system and continued financial stability were cited Tuesday by Sweet Springs Community Hospital administrator Forest Dohrman as two factors contributing to the "fairly good year" experienced by the hospital.

In his annual report to the hospital board of directors. Dohrman also noted a new automatic processor to speed the development of X-ray films is currently being installed. While saying that the establishment of an intensive care unit is not now financially feasible, Dohrman reported a special room for coronary patients has been developed. The room, he said, contains all necessary equipment, supplies and medication necessary to treat heart attack victims.

Other developments mentioned by Dohrman were Mrs. G. W. Hamby's resignation from the board of directors and the subsequent appointment of Mrs. Wilbur T. Scott.

Dohrman acknowledged the efforts of the Century Club, which, he said, "contributed so generously last year and will be called upon to do so again." He also extended appreciation to the Gray Ladies and Candy Stripers, both hospital volunteer organizations, and to all local residents "for the support they have given me both financially and morally.' Elected at the meeting to three-year terms on the board were Mrs. Kenneth Hollingsworth, Ledur Kothe and Harold Vogelsmier. Officers of the board, also elected Tuesday, are William B. Johnson, president; Ledur Kothe, vice president; Mrs. Wilbur Scott Jr., secretary; and Richard Wall, treasurer. In a financial report presented at the meeting, it was revealed that hospital operating expenses from Sept. 1, 1973, to Aug. 31, 1974, came to $321,223.36. This is an increase of $57,224.22 over last year's total of $263,999.14.

College board votes to use money in estate

By STEPHEN A. SEEWOESTER Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The State Fair Community College Board of Trustees voted unanimously Wednesday night to draw up plans for a permanent learning resources center and classroom facility. The structure will be built with $2.4 million willed to the college by the late Mrs. Elizabeth Yeater.

The new building, to be located northwest of the present facility on Clarendon Road, is estimated to cost $2,396,200 according to the architectural firm of Sammons and Buller.

While I am not pleased that we have to spend all of the Yeater money for the project, I am happy that we will be building a permanent building and image to serve the students of this area better." SFCC President Fred Davis said after the

Davis made four recommendations to the board before the allocated by the state toward a vocational-technical facility.

Although the board discussed all the recommendations it only voted on Davis' first recommendation.

Davis said priority now is being placed on high school students in the SFCC vo-tech area, but "since we are not receiving tax money from these areas we should reconsider our policy of accepting students, for example, from the Stover area.

High schools now pay SFCC $395 per student for vocational-

Construction on the new building would not begin until next spring, according to architect Don Buller, "which is the time we need to draw up specifications and get bids back from building

Buller said the original plans were modified to exclude a fine arts section because the addition would have made the project too costly

The new building will face 16th Street, and access will be from a driveway off 16th.

The $2.4 million estimated cost breaks down as follows: 22,000 square feet in classrooms, $660,000; 17,000 square feet for library, $510,00; 24,000 square feet for media center, $912,000;

Police action postponed

No action is presently planned against police officers named in the list of charges against Police Chief William Miller, acting police chief Charles Knapp said Thursday.

"No action can be taken against these officers until the hearing for the chief is finished because nothing has yet been proven against the men," Knapp said.

Nine officers are mentioned in the list of charges Mayor Jerry Jones presented as reasons for suspending Miller. The suspension took effect at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Knapp became acting chief of police at the request of the mayor.

"I've accepted the job because the mayor asked me to and I'll take care of the department to the best of my ability until the situation with the chief is straightened out," Knapp said.

Knapp refused to comment about the settles the matter. The City Council will meet Monday night in a closed, special session to set a date for the public hearing.

"I had no indication that the chief would be suspended and I didn't know it until he called me after the mayor told him."

He said that if any personnel changes occur, they would have to be made under the present merit system. "I can't make any changes with the men, the merit system doesn't allow this," Knapp said.

When asked if he had any indication whether he would be appointed chief in the event of Miller's dismissal, Knapp said that a new chief could only be appointed through the merit system. "As long as the merit system is in effect, the chief will be appointed by that system through examination and qualifications."

charges against Miller until the hearing Burglary cases not revealed to mayor

Former Mayor Ralph Walker said Thursday he was never told in 1968 that two. Sedalia police officers had admitted to Police Chief William Miller they were responsible for 44 burglaries of business places here. Walker, a Republican who was mayor from 1966 to 1970, told The Democrat-Capital "it was really a shock" to hear of the incident. "I never heard a word about anything like that. It didn't get out of there (the police department). I wish I had known about it at the time," Walker said. According to Walker, he never received a complaint from either citizens or other members of the police department concerning the burglaries.

"It's so hard to believe all this stuff was going on back then," he said. According to Walker, the information had to be "squelched" by police officials because he was not aware of the cases until this week.

The revelation of the burglaries came Wednesday morning when Mayor Jerry Jones announced he was suspending Miller without pay pending the outcome of a public hearing of 10 charges made against the police chief.

The first of the charges concerned former police officers Charles N. Shepard and Robert Lewis, accused of the 44 burglaries.

The charge states that in March or April. 1968, the two admitted their involvement to Lt. Jewel Riley, Sgt. Al Blankenship and assistant police chief Charles Knapp. The charge also says Riley and Blankenship reported the matter to Miller, and that Shepard and Lewis admitted to Miller they were responsible for the burglaries.

The charge then says that Miller "in total disregard of the recommendation and urging of Lt. Jewel Riley and Sgt. Albert Blankenship that criminal charges be filed against the offending officers ... refused to do so." Rather than disciplining the officers, the charge maintains, Miller allowed them to resign. It also says he withheld "... evidence and admissions of committing said forty-four burglaries from the then prosecuting Attorney of Pettis County, to-wit: Henry Keeler.

In an interview Thursday, Walker told The Democrat-Capital the only confrontation he could remember with Miller involved higher pay for police officers. He said he considered that normal, since he, too, "would fight for my people." He said he thought that while he was mayor "Chief Miller was doing a good job, considering what he had to work

According to Walker, the rate of pay for starting officers in 1968 was less than $300 a month and that little could be expected when considering the calibre of men applying for the position at that wage scale.

known, Knapp said he has no new plans for the police department. "As far as I'm concerned, the department is running smoothly," he said.

Knapp said that he hasn't spoken to all of his officers about Miller's suspension, but those he has talked to seem disappointed.

"The few men I've talked to since yesterday seem to be disappointed by the suspension, but I'm sure they will continue to do their jobs and be able to cope with the situation," Knapp said.

Dr. Thomas J. Norris, 59, 1110 South Warren, who served as superintendent of Sedalia's public schools for 15 years before his retirement in 1973, died at 4:40 p.m. Wednesday at Bothwell Hospital.

In recent years Norris had suffered severe heart problems and was treated on several occasions in the Bothwell Hospital intensive care unit.

After resigning from his post as superintendent here, he was named principal of the Sweet Springs R-7 elementary school. He resigned from that position shortly after school began this year, citing ill health.

Before becoming superintendent here, Norris served as superintendent of schools in Harrodsburg, Ky., for five years. He received his B.A. degree in 1940 from Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky.; his M.A. in 1951 from the University of Kentucky, Lexington; and his doctor's degree in education from the same school in 1962. After completing his military service Norris briefly sold insurance before going back into the education field.

During his term as superintendent here,

Norris guided the public school system through one of its most trying challenges integration of all public schools. Some of the major changes that occurred while he held the office included expansion of vocational education, increases in state and local aid to education, construction of Heber Hunt School and the Sedalia Junior High School, passage of two bond issues and the creation of special education classes, now housed at Hubbard School.

In April, 1973, Norris was honored at a banquet of the Community Educators Association. He received a standing ovation at the time. Teachers, administrators and members of the Sedalia Board of Education attended the event.

He was a member of Wesley United Methodist Church and the Kiwanis Club. He was a past-president of the Pettis County Historical Society.

Victory seen for Labor Party

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor party held a strong lead early Friday with about twothirds of the voting districts counted in Britain's crisis election. He predicted a victory that would enable him to form a majority government.

His chief rival, Conservative party leader Edward Heath, refused to concede defeat. "We battle on!" he said. Television network computers projected a Laborite victory with an absolute majority of the 635 seats in the House of Commons. "I now look like forming my fourth administration," Wilson said after winning an impressive victory for his own Commons seat and with about half the 635 election districts reporting.

All the pre-election polls predicted a clear-cut victory for him. He had been heading a minority government since narrowly outpolling the Conservatives in last February's elections.

a course for aid

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

One case comes from tending

California, the other from Pennsylvania. Actually, there is a third case from Missouri, not directly related, involving a parent who wants bus transportation for a child ata Catholic school.

Each of the cases raised difficult issues under the First and Fourteenth Amendments. In almost every other test case in recent years, the high court has rejected public aid programs that might benefit church-sponsored schools. In the court's view, such programs violate the constitutional prohibition against laws respecting an establishment of religion. But Justice Lewis Powell, speaking for the court, has said that the narrow channel may still exist through which a valid law might be piloted. It seems doubtful, but perhaps one of the pending attempts will

The California case tests an act passed by the state legislature in December of 1972. The law provides a tax credit of $125 per child for taxpayers with incomes under $15,000 who send their children to nonpublic schools. Smaller credits are provided for those with incomes up to $19,000, but no credits are offered beyond

Before the act could go into effect, an organization known as United Americans for Public Schools sued for a summary judgment and a permanent injunction against the law's enforcement. A threejudge federal court agreed with the plaintiffs and held the act invalid.

The test case from Pennsylvania went the other way. There the state legislature approved an act providing for reimbursement by the state of certain costs for auxiliary services in non-public schools. These include such services as guidance counseling, testing, remedial speech and reading, the teaching of English to Spanishspeaking children, "and such other secular, neutral, non-ideological services as are of benefit to non-public school children and are presently provided for public school children." The Pennsylvania plan also permits the state to loan textbooks in nonreligious fields. A three-judge federal court found the program a constitutional exercise of state powers.

These latest efforts by California and Pennsylvania have a sound basis in political philosophy. As the California law says, "the public interest is best served through competition and diversity in educational opportunities offered by public and non-public schools." Ideally, every child of school age should be entitled to an equal slice of a state's appropriation for education. The equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment would appear to require this. It ought to make no difference to the state how that slice is expended, so long as minimum public requirements are met.

The two acts reflect a practical interest also. Private schools are in money trouble throughout the nation. If they can be kept afloat through subsidies, tax credits, or tuition grants, the states can be saved substantial sums. In California, for example, 392,000 children attend nonpublic schools. At $1,000 a head, that is nearly $400 million the state is spared from

The Supreme Court, as I say, has not been impressed by these arguments. In earlier cases from Pennsylvania, New York and Rhode Island, the court has seen nothing but the "entanglement" of church and state. The most ingenious state programs have been viewed as mere conduits for piping public money to parochial schools. This seems to me a pity. If private education serves a useful public purpose - and it clearly does - it ought to be possible to device some valid plan for assisting parents who prefer private schools.

From the findings of the investigation, which began last April, the city's legal advisors culled out 10 specific grounds for Miller's removal from office. Whether they stand up or not will depend on the outcome of a City Council hearing, which is expected

The charges themselves certainly justify Mayor Jones' view that they are "serious." Involved are claims of protection of prostitution, the failure to file charges against two police officers who admitted 44 burglaries, other cases of Miller's refusal to maintain discipline within the department for infractions by officers, and the lack of investigation of the facts in an alleged case of flagrant police brutality.

House approves GI benefit bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House approved 388-0 a compromise package of improved GI education benefits Thursday that would increase most payments to veterans by 23 per cent.

Passage sent the $1.48 billion measure to the Senate, where quick approval is expected to rush it to President Ford after a year of wrangling over the legislation.

If the bill becomes law, the 23 per cent would be retroactive to those already enrolled in the new school term.

Ford, however, indicated several weeks ago that he would veto a 23 per cent increase as inflationary. That resulted in House rejection of an original compromise and watering down of three major provisions in the new version.

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., leader of House conferees, predicted that if Ford "vetoes this thing, he'll get run over."

Man sentenced to one year in jail

Charles E. Smith, 34, Route 4, withdrew a plea of "not guilty" and entered a plea of 'guilty" to a bogus check charge Thursday in Pettis County Circuit Court.

He was sentenced to one year in the Pettis County jail with credit given for time already spent in jail.

Smith was arrested by sheriff's officers last March on a charge of obtaining money and merchandise by means of a bogus check. The charge alleged that Smith used the ficticious name of Bill R. Brown on March 27 when he issued a check for $25 to Kehde and Kehde Enterprises Inc.

Promoters continue to testify

Leigh Kimball was present again Thursday morning to continue his testimony before the Pettis County grand jury looking into the Ozark Music Festival. Kimball was the media representative for the July festival.

Kimball had been subpoenaed to appear at 10 a.m. Wednesday, however he was not called until about 1:40 p.m. and left about 3:30 p.m., he said.

Also present Thursday morning was Chris Fritz, president of the festival promoters, Musical Productions Inc., who was scheduled to begin testimony at 10 a.m. Fritz said he did not expect to be called until Thursday afternoon, when the grand jury was also scheduled to hear testimny from David E. Kinton, secretary of MPI.

After Kimball's testimony Wednesday afternoon the grand jury heard testimony from Bennett Cash, treasurer of MPI, and Bob Brown, city license inspector. Brown was to bring all records of licenses issued to the festival.

Friday the grand jury will hear from Sal Brancator, vice-president of MPI, and Robert Shaw, vice-president of the advertising firm that handled the festival.

'Happy to be alive,' bank manager says

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A bank manager's ordeal of terror ended Thursday when he emptied his vault to buy his abducted family's lives.

'We're extremely happy to be alive," Richard Green, 33, said after his wife and two children were released by four gunmen. "It was a very lengthy ordeal and has left our whole family emotionally drained.

Green said the four entered his Grass Lake home with guns drawn about 8 p.m. Wednesday and tied them up.

In the morning, two of the men took his wife, Bernadette, and his two children, Eric, 7, and Annette, 9, to a rural motel, police said. The other two drove Green to his bank, the Ypsilanti Savings Bank's branch in Pittsfield Township.

Green said he was instructed to take several thousand dollars out of a vault and drop it under a tree in the schoolyard of an elementary school southwest of town. He took the money to the schoolyard about 8 a.m.

Then, still following orders from the kidnapers, he returned to the bank where he had been promised his wife would call. At 10:20 a.m., his wife called from the motel and said she and the children were safe.

They were picked up by police and united with Green at the bank's main office in Ypsilanti, where they were sequestered by the FBI.

State police put the amount taken at

But Wally Sherock, a senior vice president of the bank said: "The amount of money was very small, a very meaningless amount compared to the trouble those men are in the minute they are caught."

Sherock said Green told him the kidnapers never used violence.

"I guess they were very mannerly," Sherock said.

TV's supercops are not real, chief says

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Those supercops on television who snare the bad guys every time are mythical characters, says Police Chief Joseph D. McNamara.

"Television distorts what the crime problem really is like," McNamara told a women's group who had named him "boss of the year."

Presiding judge is expected home

Pettis County Presiding Judge Harry Walch is expected to return home Saturday from St. Louis, where he has been an out patient at Barnes Hospital.

Walch left for the hospital Oct. 2 and has undergone therapy treatments. He earlier underwent surgery for the removal of a malignant tumor from his sinus passages.

Bond to run first mile

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) -Gov. Christopher S. Bond plans to run the first mile Friday morning in the American Cancer Society's 'Spirit Run' from Warrensburg to Springfield, Mo.

The 125-mile relay is a fundraising

The governor and the initial runners will set out at 10:30 a.m. from in front of the Student Union at Central Missouri State College.

Sherock said Green broke into tears after his wife called.

"It was a very lengthy ordeal," Green said. "You're looking at a very happy man." He wouldn't allow reporters to see his wife or children.

He said both he and his wife took strength from the children through the

The report said production of all food grains, including record wheat and rice crops, will total 59.6 million short tons of 2,000 pounds each, up 5 per cent from last year. In September the estimate was 60

Production of the four major livestock feed grains - corn, oats, barley and sorghum - was estimated at 168 million tons, down 18 per cent from 1973. The September forecast was 176 million tons.

Total oilseed output was put at 45.1 million tons, including soybeans, peanuts, cottonseed and flaxseed, down 17 per cent from 1973. The September estimate was 46.5 million tons.

Department officials say total grain exports will be down sharply during 1974-75 as many traditional big buyers, including Europe and Japan, reduce their own livestock operations.

But the smaller 1974 crops still mean U. S. grain reserves will remain at their lowest levels in 25 years at least through next summer when new harvests of wheat are ready.

More corn, soybeans and other springplanted crops, however, will not be ready until a year from now.

The department was scheduled to issue another report Friday showing new estimates on export and other uses of 1974 crop supplies based on the Sept. 1 production figures:

In its report Thursday, the department predicted 1974 wheat yields-including winter and spring types-will average 27.8 bushels per acre, compared with 27.9 bushels per acre indicated in September and 31.8 bushels last year.

There was no new production estimate for winter wheat, the most important kind of U.S. bread grain.

Still standing

Jim Martin and John Banich, owners of the old Sedalia High School and Business College, destroyed by fire two weeks ago, started to demolish the building's remains Thursday morning. A crane from a Kansas City firm failed to show up Thursday, so operations were begun with a bulldozer and a cable. Banich said he wanted to salvage someof the steel from the ruins before the crane arrived sometime next week.
